Biographie

My name is IMANISHIMWE Jean d'amour. I was born on 3rd May 1994, I am the first born in a family of three children.

I graduated at Ecole d'Arts de Nyundo in Graphic Arts.

My arts refer to daily life, nature and environment, imaginations, orphans and children inspire me. After finish my school I worked with different companies of arts and galleries in Rwanda such as Kigali Arts Center, Inganzo Arts center, CONTE ARTIST AND DESIGNER from Uganda and Kurema Kureba Kwiga in street mural projects about HIV Campaign, Drugs trafficking in young generation, Protecting Unprepared pregnant for young girls.

I did an interview about Arts business "Artpreneurs' on why art as a business is still unfledged" with New Times magazine, published in January 2020.

I have been invited by National Television to a "Passion and Talent" show talking about Arts development in our country and in Africa.

In my childhood I was not too quiet kid and intelligent, but one day I tried to do something which is creative my friends became surprised because they didn't expect to do such an amazing thing.

So I grew up seeing artists from my family and I started to like arts and I got a chance to study it. Now I am a co-founder of HUZAARTS RWANDA, is a community arts center where we work with different young artists who have different styles with their aspects.

I give them a place of exhibition and connect them with clients.
